Just Ten Years Ago

It seems but a short time since the boy came into the household. Only a few short years. What about the next ten years—then he will be a man? You will expect him to earn his own way when he is twenty.

Are you preparing him for the time he must go out into the world? Has he any knowledge of business, the use of money, its value and importance? Does he spend all that comes to him by favor? Have you taught him to save?

Every father realizes the importance of good habit training and it is true that a bank account teaches the child the things he should know about the value of money and the benefits of saving better than any book knowledge he can ever absorb. $1 will open an account with this bank.

OUR VETERANS.

Old Soldiers and Sailors Had a Rousing Reunion in Yale.

The weather this week has been ideal, as though made to order for the sole benefit of the visiting veterans, who for three days this week, Wednesday, Thursday and today, have held the keys of our little city and been given free access to whatever it contained. The business places along Main street, many of the residences and the halls where the gatherings were, were nicely and tastefully decorated with bunting of the national colors and flags. Especially pretty was the electric sign in front of John Hutton's hardware store "Welcome G. A. R." Hearty hospitality and generous entertainment has been unstinted and the G. A. R.'s themselves say that they have never been accorded any better treatment anywhere and taken more thorough enjoyment than at this reunion in Yale. And we can say for our people that for the short time given them by the committees for preparations that they did wonders. Everybody worked with a will and gladly in order that the old soldiers and their wives could enjoy a few days together in visiting and renewing and reviving old friendships and scenes, swap yarns and listen to war speeches.

The enrollment of the members of this district reached 138 and with wives and guests the total number of visitors would be between 400 and 500. Homes were willingly opened to lodge, breakfast and supper and the best of dinners were served the three days in Kennedy hall by the town ladies, who worked hard and provided everything that was necessary for the inner man. A report of the sessions in Central hall, business meetings, addresses etc., will be published in next week's issue of the Expositor.

Free Methodist Conference Held in Yale.

The Eastern Michigan Conference of the Free Methodist church held its annual meeting in Yale last week beginning on Wednesday and continuing over Sunday.

There were over two hundred ministers, delegates and their ladies present. A number of tents were erected on a vacant lot on south Main street and a large dining tent where many slept and ate. Others were entertained at the homes of citizens.

The Methodist Protestant church was given over to their use for services and the sessions were considered very profitable and instructive. Many good addresses were made and the business sessions were well attended. We give the list of appointments below.

Fall Millinery Openings.

We haven't very much to say about the fall and winter creations that the ladies call hats and which they expect to cover their heads with this season, literally cover, we mean, because about all you see of a woman's face when she has one of these arrangements on, is her mouth and chin. We thought we had lost our wife the other evening when she tried one on. We wouldn't allow a second trial. But of course if the ladies are satisfied with the styles, and they are, we must be too and we can only say that every new shape under the sun can be found at the Yale milliners with all the appropriate novelties in trimmings, etc., and many of the hats are very handsome.

Chicken Pie Supper.

The ladies of the M. P. church will serve a chicken pie supper in the parlors of the church, Saturday evening, Sept. 24. Below we give the menu:—
